

Specific practical cases

Knowing your rights pursuant to the Law No. 1.565 of December 3, 2024 is one thing. Knowing how to ensure compliance daily, in the private or professional sector is another thing.

Two apparently contradictory yet nonetheless reconcilable interests are indeed constantly at play, namely, on one side, the legitimate interests of the professional and, on the other, the respect for the privacy of the data subjects of the personal data processing that the said professional implements; interests between which a fair balance must be found.

Thus to help you, the APDP provides a section that answers all the questions you may have as an individual when your personal data are collected by a data controller.

This section is expected to evolve and you can help us to enhance it by contacting us at the following address: apdp@apdp.mc

To make it easier to read, several themes are broached:

- Requests for the right of access
- Internet and social networks
- Human Resources
- Workplace surveillance
- Video surveillance
